Mother's Day was officially established in the United States by Anna Jarvis in 1908 to honor maternal sacrifices, becoming a national holiday in 1914. Rooted in 19th-century efforts by Ann Reeves Jarvis to improve sanitation and care for wounded soldiers, the day was designed for personal, handwritten letters of appreciation, though it quickly became highly commercialized.

Celebrated annually on the second Sunday of May, this day honors mothers, grandmothers, and mother figures with gifts, cards, and family gatherings.

The American version of the holiday originated from post-Civil War peace campaigns and was officially recognized in 1914.
